ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Miss M. C. Adles will be in Boston all this week. In Norwich week of May 10th. See adv.
Frank A. Bill has the exclusive sale of men's King Quality $4 shoes. See the new spring styles in shoes and accessories.

People's Singing Class Concert.
The concert to be given in the Town hall on Tuesday evening by the People's Singing class offers a delightful evening of vocal music. Miss Hargrave's songs are well selected and will lend a pleasing and interesting variety to the evening's enjoyment.
Her voice is considered "marvelously beautiful" and "her poise is quite as lovely as her voice." Her appearance is a credit to her. Her singing is looked forward to with much interest by the lovers of good music and everything goes to indicate that their anticipations will be realized. Tickets are on sale at Davis' bookstore and from members of the class.

BROADWAY THEATER.

The bill at the Broadway theater this week surpasses in excellence any vaudeville show season in Norwich. The headline feature is the Apollo Bros., European athletes, who created quite a sensation here some months ago with their beautiful work and the large cash prize which they offered to any local athlete who could perform one of their feats. The boys will renew their act on their return engagement. The athletes of this city have had ample time to get perfect their feats since the brothers were here last and we fully expect to see some husky local boy walk off with the prize.

Another feature is Miss Bertha Holland, the double voiced marvel. This young lady's voice is certainly phenomenal, being equally clear and vibrant when singing in deep baritone or reaching the highest notes of a mezzo-soprano. In addition she presents a decided novelty in her mechanical doll specialty, which is so wonderfully correct in every detail that the audience is kept guessing till the fall of the curtain.

Chalk Saunders, the wizard of the crayon, in lightning caricatures and witty monologue. William P. Bird, a company will be seen in his comedy sketch entitled "The Burglar's Christmas Eve," and also the fine comedy picture, "The Women Chaffeurs." The pictures are new and have never been seen here before.

BREED THEATER.

"The Western Road Agent," Thrilling Moving Picture.

With the presentation of the thrilling and sensational moving picture, "The Western Road Agent," the Breed theater has one of the greatest pictures in the field and the wonderful holdups, the horse racing, the fiery busch brechenos and the fearless cowboys make a picture long to be remembered. This picture keeps the audience in the highest pitch of excitement until the final moment, when all ends satisfactorily.

Conspicuous among the other big features are the following: Telltale Blotter, Les Rochets, scenic; The Laid-back, scenic; and the fine comedy picture, "The Women Chaffeurs." The pictures are new and have never been seen here before.

plendid musical bill is prepared, with plenty of it, making it one of the most attractive bills for a long time.

THE AUDITORIUM.

This week at the Auditorium will introduce a bill which is positively the biggest ever shown.
Expense has not been considered in arranging this program, as the three shows are the only act in the country accomplishing this feat. A novel offering in the juggling line is Capt. Bohm & Co., who juggle with ease objects which the ordinary person would find great difficulty in even lifting. Louise Hudson, a lady violinist, who has great command over the vocal chords, will be another interesting number on this bill. Attention is called to the singing of a song in which she throws her voice across the stage to one of the figures, it being impossible to detect a quiver of her lips. The reappearance professionally of John H. Cleary (Sis Martino), a well known local athlete, will arouse considerable interest. As a trapeze performer, Mr. Cleary's work is so well known that further comment is unnecessary. Grace Lavelle, a phenomenal soprano, having the remarkable range of from low G to high G in all. When one remembers that not one of our grand opera stars sing higher than this, it is the clumsy habit now—by necessity—to give a nickel and get three pennies in change. Most civilized nations have a two-cent piece or something corresponding to it—Waterbury American.

AT THE RODERICK.

The Roderick will once more open its doors to the public. Electric fans have been installed for the summer months. The picture has been changed to give a larger picture and a service has been secured that has not been seen here before and promises to be as good if not better than anything ever seen in Norwich in the way of moving pictures. The management has, regardless of expense, made this little theater as comfortable as possible for the summer months, and it will be assured that the audience will see a first class performance in comfort. There has also been a few seats reserved which will be five cents extra. Following is the program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday: The Beggar, featuring English Harvest, a play in three acts, written by Raymond O'Neill sings Take Me Out to the Ball Game, with beautiful colored slides to illustrate it.

THE CONNECTICUT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Summer School Session from June 29 to July 23, inclusive.

The summer school of the Connecticut Agricultural college will hold its eighth annual session for four weeks from June 29th to July 23rd, inclusive. The courses given in nature study, domestic science, agriculture and methods of teaching elementary agriculture have been planned to meet the needs of teachers, especially those in rural schools, as well as of others who wish to gain a first hand knowledge of nature and country life.

Special practical courses in poultry husbandry and fruit growing will be given.

Class room instruction will be confined to the morning hours, while the afternoon will be reserved for field trips and other outdoor exercises. Occasional lectures will be given in the evening.

Certificates may be obtained showing the courses completed.

Tuition in all courses will be free. Board and room rent may be obtained for $5 a week. Registration fee $5.

PERSONS TALKED ABOUT.

Levi Dodge of Manchester, N. H., has just celebrated the 89th anniversary of his birthday by giving a party, at which he was joined by Mrs. Mansur, who is 90 years old.

Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, who was graduated from Yale, is the recipient of an honorary degree at the convocation of the university at Halifax, N. S.

James McDonald of Syracuse, N. Y., 78 years old, the oldest member of the Order of Elks, died suddenly at New York state, died suddenly at the Palmer house at Haverhill. He was a commercial traveler.

Lord Escher has been giving some interesting particulars of Queen Victoria's journals. There are said to be over 100 volumes of them, all written closely in a small running hand. The last entry is dictated and was added just ten days before the queen died. The journals, it is said, will never be seen hereafter in their complete form.

J. V. Bourland is a chancery court judge out in Arkansas. The report from Fort Smith about him is that some months ago at a public dinner he said he never gave a corporate attorney an injunction against a labor union, and that last Tuesday he ordered the receiver for the Hixson Smelter. Coal company either to employ union men exclusively or to sell the property.

Ex-Senator David Turpie of Indiana, who died recently, was one of the old-time democratic leaders in that state who kept it normally democratic from 1870 to 1890. He was a master of oratory and was respected and not a little feared in the senate. He was an able lawyer, scholarly in his inclinations and a politician of more than average intellectual capacity and attainments.

Mrs. W. J. Boggs of Seattle, Wash., is credited with having grown a thornless rose. She is said to have many rosebushes without a thorn, and which bear a rose which is almost perfect in shape and coloring. A thornless rose has been one of the dreams of many gardeners for many years, and the success reported for Mrs. Boggs is expected to draw the attention of rose growers in all parts of the world.

A Child of Nature.
It was a primitive home in the Tennessee mountains where the kitchen range is still a thing of a vague and distant future. Cindy the capable, buxom and barefooted, performed her duties on the hearth of the yawning fireplace, and deftly raked the coals around the baker where the corn-cakes were browning. A glowing ember, unseen by all save old Rudd, rolled out on the hearth as Cindy stepped forward with the pot-brook and she sounded the warning: "Say, Cindy—"

"What, pa?"

"You done sot yer fut on a coal o' fire."

"Say I did, pa? Which fut?"—Success Magazine.

Grow Tall in the Country.
According to the investigations of Dr. Denker, well-known for his anthropologic studies, the influences of city life tend toward a decrease of human stature. It is away from the large cities that the best results of the general amelioration of social conditions and improvements in hygiene of modern times most clearly manifest themselves by distinct increase of stature. This increase has been marked among several of the European races during the last half-century. Where the people are subjected to urban influences the gain is less noticeable.—Youth's Companion.

The Chief Criminal.
No convict in stripes is clocked as the mosquito behind the bar.—Charles News and Courier.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

There is a demand for two-cent pieces, which have gone entirely out of circulation, although there are still in existence, somewhere—$5,834,544 of them which have not been returned to the treasury. They disappeared because there was little use made of them. Now there is great need of them to buy newspapers and postage stamps, for which it is the clumsy habit now—by necessity—to give a nickel and get three pennies in change. Most civilized nations have a two-cent piece or something corresponding to it—Waterbury American.

This will be a good time for Mid-dletown to corral whatever she wants, as she not only has a governor but a former governor to help to do it. So far as Postmaster Allen is concerned it is to his credit that the loss of the postmaster's office was purely the result of political manipulations and in no way because of any inefficiency on his part. And as for the automobile commission, it is to be hoped that it will never be created until it is more needed than at present. It has been said of it that it was proposed purely to change a means for paying political debts and it looks as though that might prove to be the case.—Ansonia Transcript.

His Majesty Has Nine Choices.

In choosing his title the new sultan has nine recognized spellings of the name of "the very nature of the name of the sultan." The new sultan's suffix Y indicates that he is a member of the sultanate of Constantinople, and one Mahmood. The new sultan's suffix Y indicates that he is a member of the sultanate of Constantinople, and one Mahmood. The new sultan's suffix Y indicates that he is a member of the sultanate of Constantinople, and one Mahmood.

A Legislator's Point of View.

Those who really desire the passage of the public utilities bill are looking for restraint on grab franchises, and for actual power in a commission to compel negligent corporations to perform their duties toward the public. Some of them at least are not afraid to say so. But over the whole legislature hangs the shadow of disapproval cast by great corporations which will be affected in the very nature of the case the passage of the present bill would take from the legislature much of its most interesting and agreeable association. Any member now may discuss with terms of friendly discussion with very prominent men who represent great corporations and whom it is considered an honor to know. All this would be changed if the legislature gave up deciding about charters and charter amendments and increases of capital and new bond issues.—Hartford Times.

A Relief.

Poor old weeping willow! Its neglected trunk lies rotting by the wayside. Years ago, dear reader, when the Meriden Britannia factory was over east, Steve Spencer, an employee, planted that weeping willow in front of the window where he worked. Steve and the factory used away long since and recently the weeping willow kept the way of all wood. Few who see it there know the relief it is to the beginning of the International Silver company.—Meriden Record.

A New Industry.

The Boston Post advocates the raising of elk as a new paying industry in Massachusetts. It says the Bay State has far more unused area than Alabama, including 121,568 acres of scrub growth, and that it is estimated that 10 per cent of the acreage of the state is available for forest purposes. The breeding of elk is peculiarly adapted to this state, it says. "Climate, soil, vast unused territory are all in its favor. It is easier than the raising of cattle and as remunerative. The raising of elk and deer for the market is possible in this state because the law allows the owner to sell his own tame deer kept on his own grounds."

Also the Men.

"Women are sacrificed by the thousands in the name of marriage," says Mother Tingley. And some men.—Rochester Herald.

Mrs. Jeannette Turner of Auburn, Me., a sprightly young person of 33, recently said to a reporter, who found her busy in her garden with spade, rake and hoe: "You must not think that my 93 years make me lazy. I like to work, and always did. There is much to do here getting my flower garden ready, and I can't trust men folk to do it. I don't see why I can't do about as much as any other woman. Flowers are my delight and I intend to have one of the best gardens in town this year. And then Mrs. Turner commenced to hoe up a new flower bed.
